For a look that was elegant yet contemporary, Tiny Jewel Box turned to Gilbert for a collaboration on their new flagship store in D.C. Over a six-month period, we worked closely with Tiny Jewel Box and their general contractor to fine-tune every detail and specification, including the engineering required to shape precision-cut glass to fit their curved showcases. It was also crucial that we ran precise electrical wiring that fit their thin-legged displays, so light would radiate onto the pieces they held. Thanks to our open and consistent communication, the project ran smoothly and the store opened on schedule, just in time for shoppers to be drawn into a gorgeous new Tiny Jewel Box during the holiday season.
